

Budget Braniacs Email

Subject: The one way to guarantee your child will become a CEO...

Dear Molly,

Whether or not your child becomes the next Warren Buffet, I know you want them to be as successful in life as they can. Learning to manage money and understanding how banks work is a big part of that.

Here is what Warren Buffet said...

“There was a study many years ago questioning how to predict business success later in life. The answer to the study was the age you started your first business impacted how successful you were later in life. Teaching kids sound financial habits at an early age gives all kids the opportunity to be successful when they are an adult.”

But finding a fun way to teach children about finances can be tough!

LINK

I know exactly how you feel. My two children didn't really care about saving or budgeting the money they had. I was embarrassed to take them to toy stores or out to eat. They wanted everything and didn't care what it would cost!

Anytime I tried to teach them about saving and running a business they would always say, “Oh, no! Not another one of Mom's boring lectures about money!”

What could I do?

LINK

Thankfully, a friend of mine recommended something amazing that has changed the way my kids understand and value money. I'm so glad she introduced me to it!

Life is so much easier now. It is my turn to share it with you.

CLICK HERE NOW TO CHECK IT OUT!

You will thank me.

All the Best,

Wendy

LINK

